1950's Mort Cooper Rawlings MC Glove

The two pictures tell the story here. Mint condition Mort Cooper. $1,800. Yes, that's a lot but this could be a top five glove in nearly any collection of vintage gloves. For those of you who would want to offer five or six gloves in trade for this beaut, I appreciate the thought but would respectfully request that you sell those gloves yourself to pay for this one.....$1,800

1930's Buckleback Glove in Box

This is a nice buckleback glove in the box from the 30's. There are no markings on the glove or box other than "Oil Dressed" on the glove. This was the common style of Marathon (Montgomery Ward). That would be my best guess. The glove is awesome and feels great. The box has split corners on the face but is structurally sound otherwise. There is no tape on the box but it could probably use a piece on the inside flap. It is super rare to find a 30's buckleback in the box.....$225

1941 Grey Clark Nokona G15 Glove

This "Turtle Back" glove has a great story. Grey Clark only played one season in the majors in 1944. However, Nokona made this endorsed glove in 1941 (only year made) I believe because he led the Dallas League as player of the year in 1941 close to their plant and known to their area. I talked to Nokona and they only have the glove being made one year but under another model number G29 but she said it was not unusual to find another model number out there. I have the email and correspondence. This is adult model glove made by Nokona G15 in excellent condition with no rips, tears or ink. The back is a "Turtle Style" back and is stamped "One Peice" spelled wrong.....$1,250

In Charley Gehringer the Detroit Tigers have a second baseman whose work has made him the talk of the baseball world. His handling of the job at the Keystone sack has established him as one of the greatest second basemen in the game, and at bat he has a habit of producing a hit when a hit is needed. Barring accident, Charley has many years of successful baseball ahead of him.

The Charley Gehringer Model Glove. A new glove built by Stall & Dean for this already famous second baseman. Made on an extremely large pattern of genuine, oil treated horsehide throughout. Laced heel, reinforced seams. The leather used in this glove is especially selected for its pliability, producing a glove that necessitates very little breaking in. Each $8.50

This is a super high-quality model. The leather is very supple and feels great on the hand. The glove, although oiled and gently used, is in fantastic condition. The matching box has a piece of duct tape on the bottom. I have no idea why as it doesn't need it as it's structurally nice and sturdy. I'm afraid if I pull it off it would remove some of the red paper on the box. I'll leave that surgery for the new owner.

1950's Graton & Knight Star Player 543 Glove in Box

This is probably a 50's model commonly found in the toy aisle of a dime store like Woolworth's I would imagine. The toy or youth glove is mint and plastic-like. It has prevalent silver stampings. Although the glove is great, the box is hammered. It's together but worse for wear. Blowing it out so someone else can feel how excited a kid must have felt back then to find this set in the toy aisle when their mother was shopping for boring stuff.....$110
